Gardens Team Highlights

During the Summer CSA season, we shared how Tommy (pictured at right, above) had taken an interest in gardening, and in growing and harvesting eggplant in particular. As you can see, he's been busy harvesting eggplant in our hoop houses for your shares this week! As eggplant season comes to a close, Tommy is already looking forward to next year!

Austin (pictured at right, below) prepared the lettuce in your shares this week. Austin is an incredibly independent hard worker! He harvested the lettuce, brought it in, triple-rinsed it (as pictured), and then packaged it for you. Austin is proud to be a member of the Gardens Team and takes pride in preparing veggies for amazing community members like you!

As always, your share is the result of teamwork! A couple other highlights include Cece harvesting and washing the radishes in your share, and Ben harvesting the beautiful blue basil. Ben also prepared the packaging (boxes, bags, etc.) for each share...no small task!

Finally, with the cold weather comes changes in Gardens. This week, Gino harvested our peppers for the last time and cleared the pepper beds to prepare them for cover crops and winter veggies. Each winter, we practice crop rotation and sow clover seed as a cover crop in many of our raised beds to restore the soil before planting next spring. This is part of our commitment to sustainability at Bittersweet, both in the Gardens Program and beyond.
